The Talk: I will reprise my TED^x Edmonton 2017 talk to introduce the research used in Canada to support why we do Career Education, how vocational identity and hope theory are the strongest methods to tether students to a path that builds the critical competency of adaptability, the key ingredient to be ready for the future. I use storytelling to build the value in career education courses and why these courses are critical in potentially getting a student engaged in school.

The Activity: It is a challenge for students to be motivated to explore post-secondary, career, labour market, health & financial literacy information. This activity will make that effort FUN! Schools have raised over $250,000 in national and provincial competitions based on levels of exploration. ChatterHigh is a research-based best edu-game that creates accessibility to this challenging information for teens. It will be a centrepiece for your mentorship discussions with your students. It is simple, free, builds community and is perfect for CLC/CLE or any educator looking for a 10-minute activity to start class.
